I met Ben and the Sauer Family through my niece who lives in Buffalo - may little Ben, rest in peace and rise in glory - may the support, love and encouragement of those surrounding the Sauer family keep and sustain them through these days as they struggle to find their "new normal!" Iowa prayers will continue to be shared.

"This little light of mine I'm going to let it shine" (for The Lord) is a song that will always remind us of Ben in the KIngs World program at The Chapel at Crosspoint. You may never know the impact your faith in our Lord has been thru the news media and Internet , but most important is the impact your faith has had on all of your children.

Though I didn't know Ben personally I could tell he was an amazing and courageous kid. He stole my heart. As a parent I can't even imagine the pain of such a loss but from your blog I can tell where Ben got his courage from. As a believer in our merciful God I know Ben is in heaven happy and free of all pain and worry, running around doing all the things that a 5 yr old boy loves to do. He resides with our heavenly Father now and there is no better, safer, happier place to be. I pray for healing and comfort for your family in this time of sorrow.

THERE are NO words to describe the sadness I feel inside. The pain you and your family are experiencing is beyond my imagination.... every time I see a little boy my heart hurts to think of how you must be feeling. WE just all have to believe that he is and always was God's child... now he can work with HIM to help us all be better people... Sending hugs, love and prayers to you and your family.. I am honored to have met you and all the Sauer Family...especially Ben.. that sweet little boy!!! God Bless

Sauer family,I am so sorry that Ben is no longer here with us on Earth. I am happy that he has gained his angel wings and is comfortable in the arms of Jesus. I never met him and Ben taught me to love my kids more, to find the joy in each day, to pray harder with a ferocity I have never had before. He opened my heart and my eyes. I wish I could have known him on earth. I look forward to meeting him on the other side of eternity. God bless you all.

My heart feels so empty. No words can say how sad I am for your loss. I have been following your blog since day one. Although we have never met, there was never a day that I didn't pray for your precious Ben. I could not stop checking the computer. I prayed everyday that you & Andy would find the strength to get through another day. Your faith is amazing. You have brought so many people together in a positive way. Thank you for sharing your son and your thought with us. I will never forget those beautiful brown eye, his dimples and that smile. He is watching all of you from heaven while he walks in the garden holding hands with God. He is at peace. I pray that you all find closure and and stay strong. Please keep in touch and let us know how you are doing. I feel that everyone who you touched would want to know..You have become part of our lives.. Stay strong & healthy for that new baby girl. God Bless all of you. xo

Thinking of all of you at this most difficult time. May prayers, the love and comfort of the ones you hold the closest to you, and especially the special moments and the best of times shared with Ben, keep you in the upcoming days ahead. Our thoughts and prayers will continue to be with you and your family. We find only peace in that Ben is no longer hurting.

Our thoughts and prayers are with you at this sad time. Little Ben inspired us all and now we are heartbroken. We ask why, but the answer is beyond our ability to know and understand. All we can be certain of is that God knows why he does what he does, and takes care of those who believe in him. But be strong and know that Ben he is waiting for you and for him it will be a very short time for him before you hold him again as he smiles and says "No more headaches."

I have never met your family but you have been in my thoughts and prayers everyday. Ben has touched so many lives and I truly feel blessed that you let us into lives. Please know that the prayers for your family will continue. Ben will live on in your family and little part of him will always live in our hearts. God will watch over all you now that Ben has his own wings

I am so terribly sorry for your loss. I cannot even imagine the pain and suffering you are enduring. Your faith will get you through this difficult time and I know you know that Ben is in an absolutely wonderful place of love, happiness and serenity. I have a poem that I always reference when someone I know passes away: Death is nothing at all I have only slipped away into the next room I am I and you are you Whatever we were to each other That we are still Call me by my own familiar name Speak to me in the easy way you always used Put no difference into your tone Wear no forced air of solemnity or sorrow Laugh as we always laughed At the little jokes we always enjoyed together Play, smile, think of me, pray for me Let my name be ever the household word that it always was Let it be spoken without effort Without the ghost of a shadow in it Life means all that it ever was There is absolute unbroken continuity What is death but a negligible accident? Why should I be out of mind Because I am out of sight? I am waiting for you for an interval Somewhere very near Just around the corner All is well. Nothing is past; nothing is lost One brief moment and all will be as it was before How we shall laugh at the trouble of parting when we meet again!By: Fr. Henry Scott-HollandMy prayers are with you and your family as well as Ben during this difficult time. Heaven just got the best little angel! Rest in eternal peace Ben! You have made such a difference in so many peoples lives.

I love him and I never meet him. I have been consumed with thoughts and prayer for you Ben. My heart is broken and you and your family is all I can think about. You and your story altered the way people view "life". You have touched me in a deep way. Such a beautiful child. No more pain and suffering. I don't understand but will try to press forward and look for you when I go to the other side. With all my love from Myrtle Beach, SC. -Sunni

I am so sorry to hear about the passing of Ben. I have followed this story from the start. I am a twin myself and know the bond twins have with each other. My heart is very heavy now to hear this news. I truly believe that he is in Gods hands now and smiling down on all that cared and loved him. May you find pease and comfort knowing that he was loved and cared about by so many, even us that did not know Ben. May you find peace and comfort from the man about. Thank you for sharing your story with us all. God bless you all. Rest in peace in Gods hands Ben for eternity.

I wanted you to know that Ben's story of Facebook has touched my heart. What a beautiful child God has to be one of his angels. May he rest in peace and may your family know that he will be watching over you from heaven. May God bless you all.

God bless your family through this sorrow. It isn't easy to share such delicate moments with the world, but you've shared the Gospel with the world through your strength and resolve to glorify God through your deepest pain. I don't doubt that Ben is enjoying heaven in the arms of Christ as I type this. Christ will sustain you and keep you through this tribulation and I am confident in Christ that we will see him again in Heaven. God bless and I will continue praying for your family for as long as I live.

Thank you Sauer family for giving us all a piece of you, for sharing your little boy with all of Buffalo. I followed the blog for so long and my heart is very heavy, in a way I didn't know was possible from not even knowing him. He has touched more lives with his short time on this earth, than most people do in a life time. That is truly God's gift. May he rest in the sweetest peace. Buffalo will forever be #blue4ben

By staying aware of your blog I became aware of GOD in a different way Thank you and your family, especially Ben. The way Jack said it "he is in heaven with Jesus", and Megan lifting her shirt and saying "Jesus and BEN are in my heart" I do not know if at this point in my life if I would have been as strong as you Mindy but I know have more faith in God. I will be going back to church and start listening. My heart breaks for your family but I know that God has all of your hearts right now more than ever

I didn't know Ben but what a brave little boy. If he only knew what an influence he had on peoples lives. I am a father of 9 yr old twins and witness the bonds that they have, I hope Jack is able to cope with the loss of his lifetime best friend. My twins are 9 and although they have never attended church we will be starting soon. I would love for my family to have the faith of the Sauer family. God bless all of you.
